A Novel Claim.

In the House yesterday a petition was filed by Mr. Money, from Messrs. Judd & Detweiler, of this city, in which they represent that they have for seven years owned and published a paper called the Postofice Guzette, having pur-chased the copyright and subscription list from the representatives of the former owner for $1.200. They were other covered. for $1,200. There were other expenses, and forther they published in the Gazette instruc-tions to postmasters and other postoffice advertisements, which advertising was worth $50 per month, but they neither asked nor re-ceived compensation therefore. The paper therefore became valuable to the Government; but the Postoffice Department, about August, 1879, started the Official Guide, which it furnishes free to all postmasters; that said Gaide contains the same information as was formerly in the Gazette, and, being furnished gratis, it has destroyed the subscription list and other wise damaged the publication of the petitioners, and, but for the difference in titles, would be a violation of the former.

District Taxat on. In the consideration of the District code in | 8-white, 4; colored, 4. the House last night some important action was taken in regard to taxation of church and school property and that of secret societies. Under existing law all church and school property is exempted from taxation. In the code, as re-ported by the committee, exemption is confined to property actually used for public wor-ship and school property where education is without charge. An amendment was adopted striking out this restriction and restoring the old law exempting all such property. An effort was also made to amend the bill by in-Baltimore and Potomuse Depot, corner Sixth and B Streets.

The Honse District Committee yesterday resumed the investigation of Treasurer Gliffilm's charges. Ex-Commissioner Phelps was recalled and examined by Mr. Aldrich. Nothing of great importance was elicited. The witness said that when he went into effice he found matters in a state of chaos. It was in May, 1876, that the Commissioners found that a great many special assessments were so erroneous as to be illegal. The Commissioners made an exhaustive examination of the rules of the Board of Public Works in 1876, and also of the methods of assessment.

Witness was questioned at length touching the failure of the Commissioners to issue taxilen certificates and the great work in posed upon the special assessment division. He said the clerk in charge of special assessments worked so hard that the Commissioners had to send him away for rest.

National Theatre-The Emma Abbott Opera

Company.

The large audience filling the National The large audience filling the National theater in every part sufficiently proved the popularity of Mr. William Castle, who was benifited last night. As an attraction the first performance of Gouned's "Romeo and Juliet" was presented together with the fourth act of "Il Trovatore." The interest centred in "Romeo and Juliet" and the liberal applause fully testified the delight of the audience. The waltz in the first act, the baleony due in thesecond, and in factovery prominent member was encored, and at the close of each act Miss Abbott and Mr. Castle were called before the curtain. The acting, as well as the singing of Abbott and Mr. Castle were called before the curtain. The acting, as well as the sligging of these two, fully justified all that has been said of them in their respective characters, and the fervor displayed by Miss Abbott in the balcony scene made many a young man in the audience wish he were in Castle's place. In the act from "Trovatore" that sterling artist, Mrs. Segulu, was heard in one of her most successful roles, and Miss Marie Stone, new to Washington, showed a clear and sympathetic voice of exceptional purity and power. Mr. Tom Karl has been heard before in Manrico, and his clear, ringing tenor has lost none of its and his clear, ringing tenor has lost none of its sweetness and seems rather to have gained in power and effect. Johnstone, of this city, who sang the part of Mignonette in a very creditable manner. Her vivacity and piquant ways qualified her well for the part, and doubtless white she confines herself to such light roles her success will be all that her best friends (and they were evidently out in large force yesterday) could wish for To-night Bizet's very successful opera off
